Ausgrid 2022-23 Pricing Proposal

Dear Mr Anderson

I am pleased to provide Ausgrid's annual Pricing Proposal to the Australian Energy Regulator (AER).

We submit this Pricing Proposal for 2022-23, the fourth regulatory year of the 2019-24 regulatory control period, to the AER in accordance with the requirements of the National Electricity Rules (NER) and consistent with Ausgrid's Tariff Structure Statement (TSS) approved by the AER for the 2019-24 control period on 30 April 2019.

Our Pricing Proposal results in a $15 (2.7%) and $21 (1.6%) per annum reduction in network charges for a typical residential and small business customer, respectively.

From 1 July Ausgrid will be introducing three sub-threshold tariffs to trial two-way residential pricing, flexible load with electric vehicles, and dynamic pricing with community batteries. The full details are in our sub-threshold tariff submission, provided to the AER on 28 February 2022.

If you would like to discuss the details of our Pricing Proposal, please contact Bill Nixey on [REDACTED]

Yours sincerely
