

Energy Consumers Australia

Default Market Offer Draft Determination Forum

Alice Gordon

The DMO has three objectives:

reduce unjustifiably high standing offer prices and continue to protect consumers from unreasonable prices

allow retailers to recover their efficient costs of providing services, including a reasonable retail margin and costs associated with customer acquisition and retention maintain incentives for competition, innovation and investment by retailers, and incentives for consumers to engage in the market

Consumers are already worried about affordability

52%

rank electricity as one of their top 3
bills of concern

52%

Are concerned energy will become unaffordable for them in the next 3 years

73%

Are concerned
energy will become
unaffordable for some Australians in the next 3 years

Consumer trust is decreasing

Percentage of residential respondents in our Energy Consumer Sentiment Survey who responded they were positive that the energy market is working in their long-term interests

'Shopping around' isn't an option for everyone

40 - 45%

Unable to select the cheapest offer when presented with three options

44%

Have literacy levels that are considered to be below what is required to fully participate in society

AER Towards Energy Equity Strategy and Draft Consumer Vulnerability Strategy

“At the moment I think the energy market is driven by greed. Gone are the days that if you stayed with a company you would get a loyalty discount. Unfortunately now us as the consumer need to be constantly on the ball trying to chase a better deal. This is what the company's count on, people being too lazy to check.” - Male, 40-49, general public

We maintain that the retail margin is too high

Residential	Small Business
10%	15%

Our thoughts on the DMO 5

- The DMO must remain focused on its function as a consumer protections tool
- We support the AER's methodology for calculating wholesale costs
- We believe the retail margin is unjustifiably high
- We don't believe there should be a separate retail margin for small business and residential consumers